

Expect Action On Appeal To U. S. To Wash Out Fox River

Government Engineers Confer
With Officials on Conditions Here.
EXPECT 48-HOUR FLUSHING
Officials Would Make No Promises But Conversation Was Assuring.

Almost immediate action looking toward relief from the situation created by the decay of thousands of bodies of dead fish in the Fox River is expected from the United States engineering office in Milwaukee following telegraphic pleas to the war department in Washington, D. C., for help. Officials in the engineer's office conferred with city officials here by long distance telephone Thursday morning and while they made no definite promises their conversation indicated they were favorably considering raising the level of the river for 48 hours in order to flush out the dead fish and decaying vegetation.

Arthur E. Gorman, Chicago, as assistant sanitary engineer of the United States public health service, is in Appleton conferring with officials of the water department relative to the water supply and will make an investigation of conditions here. He will report to the surgeon general in Washington. Mr. Gorman has been in touch with Dr. Harpner, head of the state board of health, relative to the situation and there is a possibility that a representative of that board will be sent here to look into the matter.

No Epidemic Danger
Dr. H. B. Ellsworth, city health officer, told Earl M. Nisen, Milwaukee, connected with the engineer's office, that there is no danger of an epidemic of illness here because of the stagnant water but did say that thousands of fish have been killed by the low water and the stench from their decaying bodies and from decay of vegetation is intolerable. He urged immediate action to remedy the condition. Mr. Nisen asked if flushing the river for 48 hours would relieve matters and he was assured that it would. He said he would lay his report before the engineer at once and it is believed he planned to urge action.

Fred Morris, secretary of the water commission, later was called by an officer in the engineer's office and he told that official that unless the river was flushed or this region was visited by heavy rains in the very near future the situation would become much worse than it now is. He described the sections on the river where thousands of dead fish are floating on top of the water. It was learned that the government engineers agree with authorities here that lack of oxygen is responsible for the death of the fish. As was previously explained the decaying vegetable matter is absorbing the available oxygen out of the water thereby robbing the fish of the element required for their life.

Water Is O. K.
Water department officials maintain that the stagnant condition of the river is in no wise affecting the purity of the water served through the city's mains. The water is harder to handle and it is likely to cause more trouble unless the river level is raised but no particular difficulty is being experienced at this time.

But in spite of the assurances from the officials there are many persons in Appleton who are refusing to use city water and are depending on neighborhood pumps for their supply. It is evident that the consumption of water will be materially reduced as more persons become wary of the purity of the city's supply.

While no direct reply has been received from Washington to the telegrams sent by District Attorney Fred V. Hennemann to the war department and to the United States Senators La Follette and Lenroot, it is evident that these telegrams have been responsible for the action that has been started in Milwaukee. Although the Milwaukee officials were conversant with the situation here nothing was done to relieve it until this morning and it is believed here that action was instigated from Washington.

All England Celebrates At Death Of 'Dora'

By United Press Leased Wire
London—"Dora" is dead. England avoike Thursday, officially at peace since midnight with all countries except Turkey and the hated Defense of the Realm Act known during the War by its maiden name, was a thing of the past.

The war time restrictions that required Americans in England to spend most of their time standing in line, reporting at police stations which forbade the raising of window curtains after dark or the striking of matches out of doors, during the night and which proscribed what people in England should eat, should not drink and might say to one another, were removed at midnight by an order in council.

WORLD NEVER WILL BE WITHOUT WAR, PRESIDENT SAYS

Address to War College Says America Comes Nearest to Peace Basis.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Hope of entirely abolishing war is "perfectly futile," President Harding told officers at the army war colleges here Thursday. "Arms and navies probably will always be necessary," he said, "no matter how far aspirations toward world peace lead."

Practically every high officer of the army was present in the small lecture room of the war college when the president spoke. Secretary of War Weeks and General Pershing also spoke briefly.

"No matter where the best aspiration of the world may lead us, there may never be a time without the necessity for armed forces," President Harding said.

Will Diminish Armament
"I believe with all my heart that we are going to diminish the burdens of armament. I believe with all my heart that we will have lesser arms and navies but there may never be a time when there won't be requisite defense agencies."

"It is perfectly futile to think there will never be conflict when we stop to think that in the 2,000 years of human civilization and that 4,000 years of human civilization, we have only lately come to a civilized state of warfare and even that does not apply to all nations."

"But America I can say without unbecoming boasting has come nearer to it than any other nation."

"And I pledge you now that you will never be called to service under this administration for any work that you cannot enter with all your hearts and souls as American citizens."

President Harding told the army officers the principle of understanding should govern the nation both in its domestic and its world affairs.

Scores Mine Conflict
"We ought to have no conflict like that which is now distressing us in West Virginia," he said. "That condition is due, I believe, to a lack of understanding."

"There ought never to be conflict between nations if those in authority have understanding and I want you to be the defenders of an administration that believes in a fullness of understanding at home and a fullness of understanding among the peoples of the world."

Opening his brief address, President Harding explained that he must rely on technical skill such as is being acquired by officers studying at the war college.

"The president is after all just the agency employed in focusing judgment and knowledge of those who must necessarily actually conduct the affairs of this government," President Harding said. "No man, not even a superman, could direct the United States if it were otherwise."

"I can from my own experience remind you that if the war college is an institution which brings the knowledge and experience to bear on theory it is making a contribution to this government."

"The trouble with the world is that too many theorists know nothing of actuality."

STRIKE IF SUNDAY OVERTIME IS LOST

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Ill.—Railroad shop workers will strike Sunday rather than accept week day pay for Sunday work. B. M. Jewell, president of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor declared Thursday.

"If we can only settle the question with a strike, the men will walk out," Jewell said.

Jewell declared the rule giving men overtime pay for Sunday work had been in force for twenty years and "if we cannot get justice any other way, the men can leave the service."

Railroad workers claimed that a strike of shop workers, would tie up the railroads just as effectively as though the engineers and firemen quit.

Bites Woman's Finger; Held For Her Murder

By United Press Leased Wire
Kenosha, Wis.—Mrs. Lucia Andreucci, 56, is dead here because she stuck her little finger in the mouth of her son-in-law, Joseph Angelotti, during a quarrel.

District Attorney Frank Symmonds will decide Thursday what to do with Angelotti, who is accused of having bitten his mother-in-law's finger until the flesh was lacerated. Blood poison followed and the arm was amputated, but this failed to control the infection and death resulted.

FEUDAL 'BARONS' BLAMED FOR WAR IN MINE FIELDS

Head of United Mine Workers
Says Mine Employers Are Held Like Slaves.

BY JOHN L. LEWIS
President of the United Mine Workers of America

By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind.—In West Virginia, from the line of the Kanawha river northward, some 55,000 miners are employed, working under joint agreements between the coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America. In this section peace and harmony prevail between employers and employees, with precisely the same relationship as exists between the mine operators of Ohio, Indiana or Illinois, and their employees who are members of the United Mine Workers of America in those states.

In all of this great area the Baldwin Felts mine guard or professional gunman is unknown; no disorders occur and community life in the mining camps is peaceful. Contrast this condition with the situation existing in unorganized territory south and east of the Kanawha river in the counties of Logan, Mingo, McDowell and Mercer. In this section some 40,000 miners are employed, who dare not be company members of the United Mine Workers of America for fear of instant discharge by the operators. They live in unincorporated mining camps where their dwellings and the land upon which they are located are owned solely by the coal companies. In most instances there are no public roads leading to these communities and ingress and egress are over land held by the coal corporations.

Employ Gunmen
To police this territory, prevent the miners from joining the union and hold them in complete subjection, the coal operators maintain what is practically a standing army of mine guards. These guards are furnished under contract by a detective agency.

These guards are recruited from all classes and are equipped with rifles, revolvers or automatic pistols. These professional gunmen, directed by the agency have during their years of employment inflicted an almost countless number of physical assaults and outrages upon individual mine workers.

The political influence of the coal operators and the agency is sufficient to prevent the miners from securing justice in the county courts or in the councils of the state government.

The United Mine Workers of America had made public protest against these outrages, and even at times brought before the governors of West Virginia the maimed, bleeding and bandaged victims of the gunmen as evidence of their atrocities, and upon every occasion has been denied redress.

Appeal to U. S.
The international officials have repeatedly taken the matter up with government departments at Washington, extending back through several administrations, and despite these efforts the mine guards of West Virginia continue to flourish, imposing the will of these feudal coal barons without warrant of law upon the Americans who are compelled to live in this environment and toil in the mines. Under these circumstances can one marvel that patience has ceased to be a virtue and that the mine workers are venting their pent up indignation and resentment by assembling in force to protest these outrages?

The United Mine Workers of America condones no violation of the law, but for those who have knowledge of conditions in southern West Virginia, it is easy to understand the psychological process which the minds of these toilers have undergone while brooding over their wrongs.

Federal troops may restore order in West Virginia, but unless the primary cause of this constantly recurring trouble is removed by the abolition of the mine guard army and the recognition of the constitutional rights of the miners in this section the dove of peace will never make permanent abode in this stricken territory.

WILL SHIELD RUSS CHARITY FROM POLITICS

Hoover Relief Program Will Not
Mix With Efforts of Supreme Council.

AVOID SOVIET RECOGNITION

Army of Fifteen Americans Expects to Reveal True Conditions Soon.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington.

The United States government is making it clear to the governments of Europe that the American relief administration which has undertaken to help Russia is a non-governmental institution and that it would be preferable if the whole relief project were stripped of any governmental aspect whatsoever.

The supreme council recently voted to cooperate with the United States government on Russian relief, by leaving the American government had been negotiating with the soviet government. This misunderstanding arose because Secretary Hoover is a member of President Harding's cabinet and is at the same time the head of the American relief administration. Mr. Hoover entered the Harding cabinet with the understanding that he be permitted to carry on the relief work in Europe and Mr. Harding consented to the arrangement.

Prevent Garboring Political Data
But even if there were no doubt about the absolute separation between the Washington government and the American relief administration which is a consolidation of charitable organizations, the European governments would probably have proposed government relief. There are very substantial reasons why the United States government thinks the relief project should be kept as far as possible out of the realm of government. In the first place, the chances of breeding misunderstanding in Russia by permitting an allied expedition of agents to rove around Russia under the pretense of studying relief but with the object of getting data wherewith to handle the political situation are recognized here.

Secondly, the soviet government has been endeavoring for some time to enter into diplomatic relations with other governments on one pretext or another so as to give the impression inside Russia that the soviet program is being recognized throughout the world. Those who believe the soviet methods must be abandoned think the quickest way to insure the establishment of a good government in Russia is to leave the situation to the Russians themselves to develop without outside interference.

U. S. Government Lays Out
When the relief project was first broached to America even the Russians had an idea that it would mean the resumption of relations with the American government. The department of state did take a hand in the proceedings to the extent of advising the American relief administration that all American prisoners released before relief work should begin and this wish was respected. Now, however, the American government takes no further part in the negotiation or the execution of relief plans.

All the American charitable organizations interested in Russian relief have been united under the direction of General Haskell.

It is the firm intention of the American relief administration to cooperate with any allied effort but under no circumstances will American charities be turned over to Europeans for administration. Each nation wanting to help Russia can do so on its own responsibility and will find American ready to coordinate so as to prevent overlapping. But the men who have raised funds for the American people have a responsibility to the donors which the American relief administration feels it cannot ignore.

Motives Are Sincere
America's purposes in Russian relief are wholly non-political. The United States government understands that the American relief administration is not interested in carrying on propaganda for or against sovietism and with respect to any other political phase of the Russian situation there are those who think the European habit of mixing international politics with relief projects would find expression in the present instance and that a tie-up of the American machinery with that of the European governments would mean a loss to the American project in sentimental value and funds might not be as readily obtainable.

While the European powers have just appointed a committee to go to Russia and study the situation, the American relief project is under way. Fifteen men have been sent into all parts of the country to report on the true state of affairs. They are to take the number of persons in distress all the way from ten to fifty million. Secretary Hoover is inclined to believe that the Russian problem has gone far beyond the reach of charity. It is said that nine million children are starving. The American relief administration has undertaken to help one million, but if the number of people affected by the famine is fifty million none of the relief projects will be adequate. The facts should be available within a fortnight.

Senate Gropes In Dark For New Taxation Plan

Senator Smoot Offers Only
Plan to Raise Necessary Budget—House Bill Falls Short of Four Billion Dollar Estimate.

By L. C. Martin
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—Senate tax experts are as completely in the dark as to what next year's taxes will be as the most obscure taxpayer in the country.

They admitted this Thursday when the senate finance committee took up the tax bill. So complete was the lack of information by the committee members that the first step proposed was the reading of the bill passed by the house.

The house bill, senators said, must be vitally changed. "It doesn't produce enough money for one thing, yet it leaves the taxes too high, they complained. But when questioned concerning proposed changes in the house plan not a single member of the committee except Senator Smoot, Utah, had a plan.

Most Republican members of the committee are waiting for Senator Penrose, the chairman, to outline a program.

No Working Idea
"Leave that to the experts," Penrose told them. He then departed for Philadelphia, where the local political situation is particularly engrossing right now. He is expected back today.

The entire absence of any working idea on the committee's part makes Smoot hopeful for his plan, which, in a word, consists of simplifying the whole taxing business by collecting revenues from six sources instead of thirty-five as now.

"My plan is theoretically correct," said Smoot. "It will produce $3,389,000,000 a year. The house bill will produce only $2,664,000,000. Secretary Mellon says he wants $4,000,000. My bill would about give it to him."

"My bill presents a plan that would stand through the years producing more or less revenue as the need arose, by a simple change in the rates."

Here's how Smoot would get revenue:
Income tax, $840,000,000.
Tax on corporation profits, $445,000,000.
Tobacco tax, $255,000,000.
Estate tax, $150,000,000.
Manufacturers' sale tax on three percent, $1,200,000,000.
Tariff duties, $400,000,000.
Back taxes "dig out" and collected, $340,000,000.
Liquor taxes, $75,000,000.
Salvage of war materials $200,000,000.

BELFAST IS QUIET AFTER RIOTING FOR SEVERAL DAYS

Reinforcements of Troops
Guard Scene of Bitter
Sectarian Battles.

By United Press Leased Wire
Belfast—At noon Thursday Belfast was quiet. The fierce sectarian warfare that flared up Tuesday, despite the truce, had apparently died away, leaving the city to face a death roll of sixteen with more than 100 in hospitals, and a bill for damages amounting to many thousands of pounds.

Armed patrols kept order in the main streets and the city was still under military control.

More troops arrived in Belfast Thursday. The "no man's land" areas between Catholic and Protestant sections and the street car lines along which the shipyard workers traveled Thursday morning were heavily guarded. Barbed wire entanglements were erected along York street.

The latest death toll was sixteen with approximately 100 wounded.

Soviet Is Attempted
Dublin—The red flag has been raised in southern Ireland.

In Brurea, county Limerick, a group of transport workers seized a mill and a bakery and declared themselves a soviet.

Placards declaring that the mills were now the property of Brurea soviet workers were put up in the town. They contained the announcement:

"We make bread, not profits."

The action followed the dismissal of two employees of the mill, whom the owner refused to reinstate.

Reply Forwarded
Dublin—The reply of Dail Eireann to the latest British note was forwarded to Lloyd George last night. It was officially announced here Thursday.

Special Irish couriers carried the Dail's reply directly to the British premier in Scotland.

The reply has not ended the negotiations, unless the British government insists upon breaking them off, it was said. Further pourparlers have been suggested.

Airplane Scouts Report 30 Dead and Number of Fighters Increasing.

QUIT WHEN TROOPS COME

War Department Has Troops
Ready and Plans to Declare Martial Law.

Logan, W. Va.—Airplane scouts, after an observation trip over the fighting zone this afternoon, reported miners were reforming in attack groups.

Scouts said the miners' earlier movements indicating they were dispersing, apparently was only a maneuver. The squadron was dispatched Thursday to the fighting area of West Virginia, by Secretary of War Weeks.

The squadron consists of thirteen airplanes and was ordered this morning from Langley Field, Va.

The airships, it is understood, are to be used as an evidence to the army of miners that the government stands ready to quell the fighting.

Thirty Are Dead
Thirty miners were killed in the Crooked Creek and Blair mountain battles Wednesday according to reports of air scouts brought here Thursday.

The fliers reported steady streams of miners reinforcements moving into the battle zone.

Logan forces expecting an attack early Thursday swept the ridge from Blair to Mills Creek with machine gun and rifle fire. The miners did not reply until the barrage ceased. They then reopened smiting along the 25 mile fighting sector.

A special train of reinforcements was reported derailed near Logan Thursday.

Washington Awaits Word
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—War department officials were still without word from General H. H. Bandholtz at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon an hour and a half after the time limit set for the armed miners in West Virginia to disperse.

War department officials explained that the Bandholtz messages might be delayed due to the difficulty of securing accurate information from the "hot" places of the miners.

Reports from West Virginia indicated that the miners are continuing to defy President Harding's command that they disperse and that fighting is still occurring in the disturbed areas.

Force Is Next Step
President Harding and Secretary of War Weeks are determined that force will be the next step to be taken to quell the outlaw fighting in West Virginia if the president's proclamation is not obeyed by noon Thursday.

Troops are all in readiness to rush into West Virginia. Secretary Weeks said. The troops will be ordered from the Fifth army corps area, headquarters of which are at Indianapolis and the soldiers will probably go from Camp Sherman, Ohio, and Camp Dix, N. J.

The first contingent of federal forces to leave Washington is expected by army officials to be around 1,300 men.

Shooting Keeps Up
Ethel, W. Va.—Reported shelling posted in the mountain passes north of here have battled with miners almost continuously since dawn yesterday. It was learned at state police headquarters Thursday.

There was no let up during the night and fighting was still in progress this morning, according to reports of sentries of the state constabulary to headquarters here.

Sporadic rifle fire and the sputter of machine guns can be heard.

It was believed from the volume of fire there has been greater loss of life than is reported. The number of casualties is guarded by men on both sides.

Miners Want Troops
By Harold D. Jacobs
Madison, W. Va.—The miners' object in moving upon Logan county is to force the government to send federal troops their leaders informed the United Press Thursday.

They will cease fighting and retire when the troops arrive but not until they have forced their imposition of martial law.

Union men regard the intervention of federal troops as a victory and were holding their ground, fully armed, to compel the government to make good its threat to take charge of the situation at noon.

Five thousand men, strung along the mountainous Logan county line southwest of here, received President Harding's ultimatum with "poker faces." They sent unofficial word back to their own union leaders that it would be death for the latter if they tried to come in and turn back before the soldiers arrived.

Conversations with miners Thursday revealed their attitude.

"The only way we can be assured of a square deal is by the presence of federal troops. The original object of our first march in which 15,000 participated was a demonstration to force the release of miners under arrest under state martial law in Mingo and compel the expulsion of former

WEALTHY MEN WILL BENEFIT MOST BY TAX REDUCTIONS

Administration Bill Raises Family Exemption for Income Taxes to $2,500.

By Harry Hunt
Special to Post-Crescent
Washington.—It's going to be cheaper to scrub your teeth, once the Republicans get their new revenue bill enacted, than it was when the Democrats were in power.

Also, it will cost less to decorate your home with art bronzes or statuary, or to buy Sonny that baseball bat and glove.

And every time you take your wife or sweetheart a five-pound box of chocolates you'll be a whole time ahead, if the confectionery plays along with you and gives you the benefit of the 2 cents per pound tax reduction of the new law!

Spenders Save
An analysis of the new revenue bill in the form in which it was passed by the House, shows that the bigger spender you may be able to make under the new tax schedule.

If you've been living close to the line, holding down on the number of ice cream sodas and the amount of candy you consumed, denying your wife fancy flummerys and cosmetics, traveling little and puffing your pipe in shirt sleeves instead of a smoking jacket, the bill holds only one relief for you, that is:

If you have a big family, you'll get a $400 exemption on each child, for income tax purposes, instead of $200 as allowed by the Democratic law.

Millionaires Benefit
On the other hand, while the new tax schedule will save you that 2 cent tax on your weekly ice cream soda, and 2 cents on each pound of candy, not to mention tax-free toothpaste and lip-sticks, the assessment of John D. and other gentlemen with incomes above the million dollar mark will be reduced $330,000 on each million of net taxable income.

The average citizen, however, with income of $1,000 to $5,000 a year, will feel some relief under the provisions of the law as passed by the House.

Taking income taxes first, the new law increases the exemption of the head of a family from $2,000 to $2,500, where the net taxable income is less than $5,000 per year. Where the net income is $5,000 or more, the exemption, as head of a family remains at $2,000.

Child Exemptions
The exemption for each dependent child under 18, or for each other person totally dependent upon the head of the family, is increased from $200 to $400.

With these exceptions, the income tax law remains unchanged for the taxpayer on $5,000 to $50,000 income.

But if you are one of the super-taxpayers, with a net income exceeding $50,000, you will be more interested in the amendment which strikes out all higher surtaxes than the 32 percent fixed for income above that amount.

President Harding and judges of the supreme and inferior courts are relieved from any tax on their federal salaries.

Officers in the army and navy, however, who have been allowed exemption up to $3,500, are returned to the status of the ordinary civilian.

Corporation Taxes
Corporation income taxes are amended, to provide a tax of 12 1/2 percent instead of 10 percent on net income, effective in 1922.

The graduated excess profits tax on corporations is repealed, effective Jan. 1, 1922.

Taxes on insurance companies are fixed at 12 1/2 percent of their net income, beginning with 1922, instead of 10 cents on each $100 of insurance written and $1 for each $1,000 of surplus and reserves.

The transportation tax of 3 percent on passenger business and five percent on freight is repealed, effective Jan. 1, 1922.

Taxes Repealed
Of the excise taxes, those on soft drinks and ice cream, considered objectionable because so obtrusive, are repealed.

The tax on candy is reduced from 5 cents to 3 cents a pound.
Taxes on sporting goods are reduced from 10 to 5 percent.
Art goods are assessed at 5 percent instead of 10 percent, and the rate on the major items in the excise list scaled down.

Then the husband was stabbed to death in a brawl. His successor, a chief, she divorced after he had been arrested for forgery. Her third husband was murdered in a row on the reservation. And since then she has been twice married.

Henry and Mary Roan, both Osages, were the happiest married couple on the reservation when oil was discovered. Riches brought everything else, but drove happiness out. Now a divorce suit is pending.

Susie Whiskey, an Osage girl, is seeking her second divorce from a white man. She charges that both of her husbands treated her brutally.

Nor is divorce the worst evil. The body of Anna Brown, one of the richest of the Osage girls, was found by the roadside a few months ago. It was plain she had been murdered, but by whom is a mystery. The authorities are holding her husband while they investigate.

In 1915 the year's allotment for oil to each Osage was $170. Last year it was more than $10,000. But this year, due to decrease in oil prices and also to a determination by government officials to save some of the Osages' money for a rainy day, they will get only $4,000 each. This is divided equally, the newest born baby getting as much as the oldest chief.

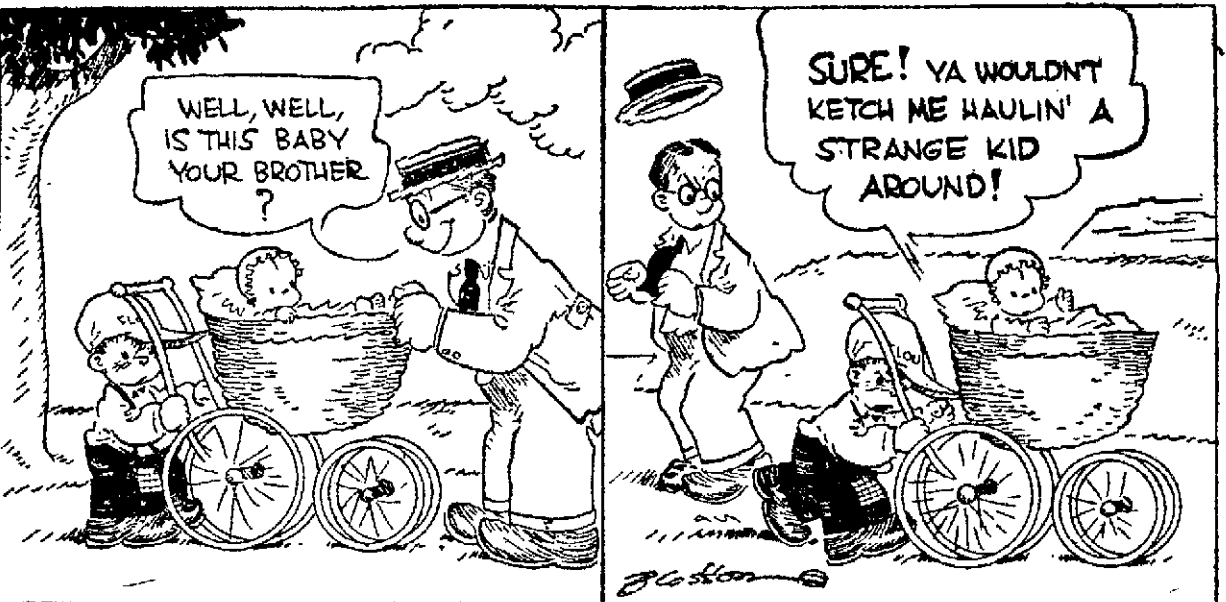

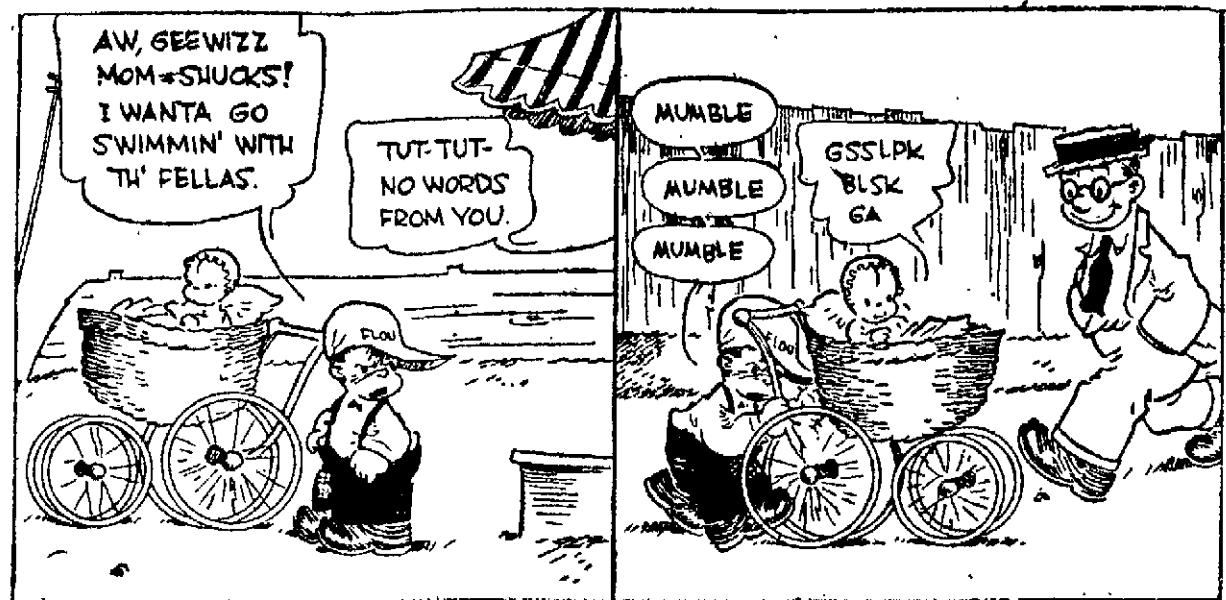

Harry H. Long removed the household goods of Mrs. H. Denner of Kimberly to Oshkosh Thursday where she will make her home with her parents.

Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Tift and daughter Nellie and Mrs. A. J. Koch and daughter Virginia have returned from a visit with Menominee friends.

John Gray and family of Sherwood, were guests Tuesday of Appleton friends.

100 SUPERVISING TEACHERS ATTEND STATE CONFERENCE

Two Outagamie-Co. Teachers Return From Madison—Cal-lahan Is Speaker.

One hundred supervising teachers of the state attended the convention of supervising teachers which was held last week in Madison. Miss Nellie McDermott and Miss Genevieve Collar represented Outagamie-co.

John Callahan, state superintendent of schools, opened the convention with an address on "The Rural School Problem." He said that the country is about to face a widespread shortage of efficient teachers due to the fact that schools with few children hire cheap and inexperienced teachers, thereby lowering educational standards.

Musical instruction at the convention was directed by Prof. E. B. Gordon of the state university. He told teachers that better school work can be carried on by introducing music into the curriculum.

Miss Hedin gave an interesting talk on "Why Have Supervising Teachers?" She answered the question by giving three reasons: She pointed out that the county superintendents of free is more than a one-man job and that supervising teachers are assistants to the county superintendent. Many of the rural teachers are young and inexperienced and need expert help such as a supervising teacher can give. The final reason she gave is that it is part of the plan of development and improvement in country education.

The teachers visited the dairy barns at the state college of agriculture and observed methods in use there. Visits were also made to the capitol, the zoo and the Dane co. fair.

Begin Now To Plant Next Summer's Flower Garden

Perennials Are Planted in Early Fall to Insure Good Start Next Spring.

Time was when every busy housewife snatched a few moments in the spring to plant a nasturtium bed somewhere near the kitchen door and when she watched the calendar and temperature nervously lest Good Friday should be a too cold day on which to plant her sweet peas. Dealers in flowers and shrubs say that that time is past.

Hardy perennials which come in every possible hue, shape and size are now the favorites because once they are planted and thrive—and the florists tell you that they grow read large scale who do not have the time." "Moenan's mals is one of the most popular perennials now," said E. B. Ralph who has had considerable experience in landscape work. "It was introduced in Appleton several years ago and had become a great favorite because of its exquisite flowers in red, dark pink, pink and white. It is slightly different from the marsh mals which is also being used extensively."

Shrubbery is also enjoying great favor in the present garden plans and many of them are used with the winter in mind. Evergreens which make an admirable background for the bright blossoms in spring also make a beautiful picture in the winter time ly—they remain permanently in your garden spot. Landscape gardening has had much to do with the use of shrubbery and perennial flowers with greater satisfaction than annuals.

Garden magazines for August and September tell many fascinating tales of the endless procession of blossoms which is possible from a well planned perennial garden. In the midst of a hot and dry season when your much beloved asters have been too small to make nice bouquets and when the stems on your zinnias have been too short for cutting picture the cool spring freshness of tulips, iris, narcissi, the bright cheerfulness of daffodils, the heavy odor of hyacinths. The season for planting these things is at most at hand.

J. H. Boettler of the Riverside Greenhouse said that Appleton flower lovers are keeping pace with all the new plans for gardening. They are ordering tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses, iris and peonies now. It is a little late in the season for peonies as they should be moved in early August.

Plant After First Frost

"Shrubs should be planted after the second or third frost," said Mr. Boettler. "They require very little attention although the ground can be loosened around their roots in the home garden where people have the time to spend. The old idea of tying up the stalks and banking each plant has been disapproved by growers on a when they are laden with snow. The bright berries and twigs of many shrubs add an interesting touch of color to the dreary aspect of the winter garden.

Otto Wilke of the Market Garden company claims the gladiolus as one of the most satisfactory of perennials. Others are the fox glove, shasta daisy, phlox, larkspur, delphinium, Oriental poppy and many many more. Every seed catalog is a poem of delightful garden pictures.

"Irene" The special company which will present "Irene" the famous international musical comedy success from the Vanderbilt Theatre, New York, at the Appleton Theatre on Thursday evening September 8th, has been personally organized by Mr. James Montgomery for this tour. It includes the leading singers and comedians seen during the long New York and Chicago runs and who helped to make the piece so popular. While the comedy in the play and the music are so amusing and extraordinary the piece could be presented irrespective of stars or famous players. Mr. Montgomery has arranged for an ensemble of experienced people, who will do credit to this sensational success. The leading character is Irene O'Dare, a New York shop-girl, and the story of the play centers around the transformation of her for

GOVERNMENT AND RAILROAD

The points raised in the letter of Mr. McAdoo to Senator Stanley discussing the plan of settlement with the railroads proposed by the President naturally attract attention, as Mr. McAdoo had much to do in establishing present relations between the roads and the government. Taking the account, as the president gives it, the railroads owe the government $768,000,000, and the government owes the roads $500,000,000. McAdoo's argument is that only the net debt due the railroads, $263,000,000, need be provided for. Under this plan there would only be $263,000,000 of railroad securities instead of $500,000,000, to be marketed, and thus the task of the treasury would be greatly lightened and the probability of success much increased. It may be questioned whether there is anything due the railroads beyond the amount remaining after the proper set-offs have been made.

Of course, under the president's plan no more would ultimately be paid to the roads than this difference between the two obligations. For it is proposed to accept $500,000,000 of railroad securities, sell these to the public, and out of the proceeds pay to the roads the amount due them—$500,000,000. These securities would be credited against what the roads owe the government, thus leaving due the $263,000,000, which is the difference between the two sums. The point made by McAdoo is that, whereas the roads would immediately get what is due them, the government would have to wait ten years, not for the balance of $263,000,000, but for the total amount due from the roads, which is $768,000,000.

There is, too, a question as to the meaning of the provision of the transportation act bearing on this point. The act seems to contemplate that there shall be a set-off, and that only "the remaining indebtedness of the carrier to the United States" shall be funded. During the recess of congress there will be ample time to give this whole subject the attention that it deserves. By making the set-off that Mr. McAdoo suggests, the debt of the government to the roads will be paid, $500,000,000 of the debt of the roads to the government will be canceled, and only $263,000,000 of that debt will be left to be provided for through funding.

It is manifest that some such mode of settlement as this would interfere with the operations of the treasury much less seriously than would the larger funding operations suggested by the administration. McAdoo's plan, however, seems to leave out of consideration the plea of the railroads that they must have relief immediately. It is this question as much as any other that is at issue.

PREPARING FOR TRYING YEARS

"The United States is going to be too mindful of its duties and responsibilities in the trying years that are ahead to enter into any engagement or agreement or contract which does not permit the maintenance of adequate means, military and naval, for performing those duties and meeting those responsibilities whenever occasion shall arise." Thus a great New York daily newspaper argues that disarmament does not mean disarmament in connection with the coming conference in Washington.

The words, duties and responsibilities are impressive and appealing to all well intentioned minds. But many who are well-intentioned are not logical and the fallacies of such an argument will not appear to those who ask some pertinent questions. The United States is the richest and most powerful nation in the world. Among all the nations it alone can maintain modern armies and navies with the least distress. In fact it is the only nation which can be said to afford such expenditures at all. If the other countries paid their debts and stopped borrowing money they would have no funds with which to build navies or support armies. Among the duties and responsibilities which the United States should first recognize, therefore, is that of using its powerful influence to put an end to the useless, ruinous and perilous military expenditures of the world. It is in the best position to take the lead in this matter. If it could succeed in that it would do more to avert the coming of "trying years" than in any other way.

The United States has always occupied a unique place among the nations because it minded its own business and stood ready to help those who were in need. Until recent years we were content to occupy about "steenth" place among the nations in rank of standing army and power of our navy. But if the present trend is not diverted, no one ever will be able to determine what are "adequate means, military and naval." The only test of that will be war, and the militarists will push the contest among the nations until in utter desperation they will bring on another world cataclysm.

The occasion for meeting world responsibilities has arrived, and President Harding so interprets it in calling his conference. The only feature to be regretted in connection with it is that the invitations do not include all nations, and there is an apparent lack of vision and sincerity on the part of many in approaching it. The lessons of the past seven years should have brought the world to a frame of mind to take any sensible attempt to reduce armaments seriously.

VETERANS OPEN EMPLOYMENT OFFICE

The plan which former service men have adopted in several cities of conducting an employment bureau of their own, should be followed generally. Or, the business of finding work for these patriots should be carried on by the Red Cross, or some reliable organization. Though no bureau or organization could create much work, it could see that service men receive preference as to employment.

In a few places the service men out of work have paraded the streets as a rebuke to the people, and have carried banners displaying pertinent sentences. Such a demonstration is scarcely creditable to the bravery and sound sense of the men who served their country with great courage. The other method of undertaking to locate vacant positions and obtaining preference for service men, is more consistent with their record. Manufacturing and business concerns will be only too glad to select these gallant men above others.

SOUSA'S DINNER BELL MARCH

John Philip Sousa laughs off the rumor that he is deaf, with the merry reply that he can "hear the faintest tinkle of the dinner bell." If the great musician's genius for composition is unimpaired, this phrase might impel him to produce a descriptive march which would delight and enthuse human nature everywhere, especially in boarding houses and restaurants.

It would not be strange were Sousa deaf. His ear-drums have beaten to sickish discordances and thunderous sounds at rehearsals, but they are operating satisfactorily if they jingle to the dinner bell. Having eaten in many lands and places on his tours, Sousa would be capable of doing justice to the mealtime melody.

RESEMBLED AN UNCESED HOME

In February, 1905, an American explorer in Egypt, T. M. Davis, discovered the tomb of Thutmose, father and mother of that Queen Tyi whose influence played so great a part in Akhenaten's religious reformation.

The tomb was intact and the objects it contained were as perfectly preserved as if they had been shut up only a few weeks. One of the archeologists described his sensations on entering the place as being very much like those of a man who enters a town house which has been shut up for the summer. Armchairs stood about, beautifully carved and decorated with gold, the cushions on one of them, stuffed with down, and covered with a perfectly preserved cloth that they might have been sat upon or tossed about without injury. Two beds of fine design, decorated with gold, occupied another part of the chamber, while a light chandelier in perfect preservation stood in a corner. Most startling of all was the discovery of a jar of honey, still liquid and still preserving its characteristic scent after 3,300 years!

HONOR MAY GO TO AFRICA

Ancient Egypt, sharing with ancient Babylonia and Crete the distinction in the world's thought of being, one or the other of them, the first seat of a flourishing civilization may yet yield the distinction to some spot in Africa, perhaps the city of Benin, or perhaps some ruin yet undiscovered. Benin, whose great stone buildings surprised Portuguese explorers in 1482, has of later years given archeologists a vivid interest in the past of British West Africa. Objects found there show a method of casting bronze that was practiced by the early Egyptians and evidence accumulates that the civilization of Benin may have flourished in Egypt or Babylon, to say nothing of Crete.

WHERE PLAGUES START

There are four epidemic centers of bubonic plague—that is, localities where the disease is always present and from which seed may be derived for an extensive outbreak in other parts of the world. One of these epidemic centers is in Mesopotamia, two are in the regions of the Himalayas and the fourth is located in Uganda, Africa. The fight against plague is necessarily a fight against rats and their tenants, the fleas.

TREATMENT WORSE THAN THE DISEASE.

A correspondent writes: "I have taken quite a lot of migraine—6 to 8 tablets of migraine No. 1. Please write me the effect of its constant use. I have been taking these at this rate for several months. They have deadened the pain for which they were taken, but appear to have brought on a peculiar condition which worries me."

"I have lost my appetite and I have lost considerable weight. My finger nails and lips have a blue color. Can migraine produce these results, or might they be caused by the pain for which they were taken? What effect does migraine No. 1 have on the heart?"—R. E. C.

Without knowing exactly what "migraine No. 1" migraines tablets, capsules, powders or pills—it is practically certain that the pain killer portion is one of the coal tar derivatives usually present in so-called migraine tablets, headache remedies, grip remedies, and "cold" remedies—namely, acetanilide (sometimes disguised under the chemical name of phenylacetamide), or phenacetin (also called acetophenol), or antipyrin. The coal tar derivatives have the peculiar power of interfering with the oxygen carrying function of the blood cells and of producing cyanosis, which is the blueness or dusky color of the surface, particularly noticeable in the lips and the finger nails.

When a drug works such havoc with the blood, the safety limit has been passed and disaster impends, as this unfortunate correspondent may not live to realize if the habit is continued longer.

The drug whether acetanilide, phenacetin or antipyrin and there are several other less popular coal tar derivatives with about the same effect certainly deadens pain and at the same time it seriously impairs the vital oxygen carrying power of the blood and weakens the heart. There have been scores of deaths from these coal tar pain killers. In a few of which cases the coroner's verdict has plainly placed the responsibility on the poison, but in most of them the facts were never made known to the public.

That the lady should be permitted to purchase and abuse such poisons without any restriction whatever is an unfortunate condition. Morphine is less dangerous in effect than acetanilide, though perhaps more likely to induce habituation. It is a shame that any person should be allowed to market poisons laden with such poison, and even to exploit his remedies as "harmless" for indiscriminate use, when death lurks in them.

I do not condemn the use of acetanilide or any of the other drugs mentioned, under proper supervision, as any powerful drug should be used. I am deservingly only the indiscriminate use of these dangerous drugs by people who know nothing of their action. While it is a common thing for some druggists to lend their personal influence to the false assurances as to the "harmlessness" of the stuff, the intelligent layman ought to understand that druggists are not instructed in the effects of medicines and are therefore not competent to inform people whether a given medicine is advisable or whether it may be safely employed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Coughs.
Some time ago you had a recipe for a harmless cough remedy. We have lost the copy and would be greatly obliged if you will reprint the recipe, as we found it very good in our family. (H. M. R.)
Answer—Here it is:
Sodium citrate, one ounce.
Glycerin, one ounce.
Flaxseed, whole, one teaspoonful.
Water, one pint.
Oil of peppermint, four drops.
Juice of one lemon.
Steep the flaxseed in the water 20 minutes, strain, and add other ingredients. Additional sweetening with sugar, if desired. Dose, tablespoonful for adult, teaspoonful for child, every two hours, for any and all acute respiratory infections in which there is cough.

Aromatic Syrup of Rhubarb.

Some time ago I noticed in your column your recommendation to substitute aromatic syrup of rhubarb for castor oil for children. I asked the druggist for this and he gave me aromatic tincture of rhubarb. Is this the same as the dose for a child of two years? (Mr. E. H. B.)

Answer—The dose of aromatic syrup of rhubarb is the same as you would give of castor oil for the same effects, save that the aromatic syrup or rhubarb works without alienating the child's affections.

Howard Murphy was down from the pulpwood camps in the northern part of the state.

C. W. Young of the Fox River Paper Co., was in Appleton for a few days.

The Menasha Breeze said there was so little water in Little Lake Butte des Morts and Fox river below the dam, owing to shutting off water by the mills, that speculators might be tempted to stake out lots in the river bed and offer them for sale.

Hale Johnson, candidate for vice president on the Prohibition ticket was to speak on temperance at the armory the following evening.

The John Strange Paper Co. at Menasha had completely shut off the water from its flume and was making the water needed for its boilers and beaters directly from the canal.

A. L. Smith, president of the Appleton Electric Light and Power Co., announced that arrangements had been made with the E. P. Allis Co. of Milwaukee, to put in an adequate steam plant in the company's powerhouse in order to relieve the low water situation. The city had been in darkness for several nights owing to the company having no power to operate its plant.

The plans of Herman Wildhagen for the new school building to replace the old Hercules building in the Second district, were selected by the building committee. The estimated cost of the building was $24,000.

ALCOHOL AND PLANTS.

By means of a magnetic lever rotating a delicately poised astatic needle that actuates a small mirror, the crescograph can give a magnification of 1 to 1,000,000,000. Its inventor, Sir Jagadis Chandra Bose, has used it to show the actual "crescent" process of plants. Like the movement of a glacier, the growth of a plant is an actual progress, difficult, maybe, to measure, but measurable nevertheless, and there is no reason why Sir Jagadis' invention should not be turned to very important uses. He showed on the screen that the use of alcohol had a curiously erratic effect on the growth of the plant and by so much was out of all harmony with the plant's "natural" that is, normal and harmonious, processes. How far the inventor has pushed his investigations is not told. At all events, by his logical research he has thrown a curious light on those Indian jugglers that were believed to make a flower grow before the eyes of the spectator.

Cattle Trail Come Back?

By Frederic J. Haskin

Denver, Colo.—A herd of several hundred cattle recently reached this city, from a ranch hundreds of miles away, by the same method that cattle were brought to market in the days before the railroads were built.

Although a rail route was available, and although it would have gotten the cattle to market in a fraction of the time they actually occupied in getting here, this herd was driven overland as millions of cattle were driven in the early days. Half a dozen cowboys, with a pack outfit to carry their supplies and beds, drifted the cattle slowly across mountain and plain, letting them graze there every evening, "riding herd" upon them every night to guard against theft and stampede, carrying every detail of the technique that was evolved when the whole west was one vast open range without a rail upon it.

It was a restoration of an ancient and picturesque scene, but it was not staged for any sentimental reason. These cattle were driven to market overland for the good practical reason that they were in that way brought to their destination for about one-fourth of what it would have cost to ship them by rail. It looks as though inordinately high freight rates might bring back into use the "long trail" over which the nation's beef traveled to market under its own power for more than half a century.

The cowboy is such a typically and traditionally Yankee figure that many Americans do not realize that the American cattle business is really Mexican in its origin and moved slowly from the far South to the North. In the early part of the last century there were no cattle in all of the west north of the Rio Grande. Down in old Mexico, on the other hand, there were enormous herds of scrubby longhorn stock which had been introduced by the Spaniards many generations before.

Meantime a hungry Yankee civilization was crowding up in the eastern half of the continent. Cattle were raised on the eastern farms, but not nearly enough of them to feed this growing nation. Enterprising Yankees down in the Southwest began to see that there was a future in the raising of cattle in the West for sale in the East. Accordingly they began stealing herds of the Mexicans, bringing them across the Rio Grande and founding herds of their own in Texas. They not only found it easy to steal cattle, but they also found that when these cattle were brought North they grew larger and fatter than they ever had on the southern ranges.

When Beef Was Cheap

It was easy to get the cattle and easy to raise them, but reaching the market was another matter. Attempts were made to drive them across to Louisiana and sell them, and also to ship them from Gulf ports to eastern markets, but all of these attempts failed. When the Civil War broke out the plains of Texas were swarming with cattle for which there was no market. Their owners had unlimited beef but very little money. You could buy a cow for a dollar.

During the war these herds were forgotten and multiplied untended. After the war the plains swarmed with ungrazed cattle, a worthless little of nothing. Men of foresight hired cowboys and began rounding up and branding this wild stock. It was exciting business, for the cattle were as wild as deer. A cow or calf belonged to the man who could put his brand on it first. Incidentally, the way was prepared for the long war between the rustlers and the cattle barons.

Q. What is the salary of General Pershing? G. U. S.

A. By Special Act of Congress, General Pershing receives a yearly salary of $13,500 and allowances.

The allowances for quarters is $5,000, for heat and light $1,500, and other items of expense incident to his position are added.

Q. What should be included in a first aid kit? M. G. M.

A. A nail brush, soap, bandages, iodine, absorbent cotton, roll of gauze, toothpick, swabs and adhesive tape.

are the most important articles in a first aid kit. To these may be added a medicine dropper, boric acid solution, new skin, listerine, scissors, safety pins, aromatic spirits of ammonia and two triangle bandages.

Q. Please give directions for coloring a pipe. S. J. W.

A. Ordinarily, the pipe is boiled for coloring in a preparation of wax, which is absorbed, and a tin coating of wax is held on the surface of the pipe, and made to make a high polish.

Under the wax is retained the oil of tobacco, which is absorbed by the pipe, and its hue grows darker in proportion to the tobacco used. A merechaum pipe at first should be smoked very slowly, and before a second bowlful is lighted the pipe should cool off. This is to keep the wax as far up on the bowl as possible, and rapid smoking will overheat, driving the wax off and leaving the pipe dry and raw. A new pipe should never be smoked outdoors in extremely cold weather.

ras, dates, figs, prunes and grapes, owing to their large amount of sugar are the most nutritious. Apples, lemons and oranges are valuable for their polish salts, and oranges and lemons, especially are valuable for their citric acid. Some fruits contain two or more acids, such as strawberries, raspberries, gooseberries and cherries. These fruits contain both citric and malic acids.

Q. What is meant by the "Truce of God"? H. F. S.

A. During the Middle Ages, private warfare became very common. To suppress it or, at any rate, limit it, the Church Synods passed decrees that such fighting could not take place on certain Holy seasons, or on certain days. It was so arranged that only eighty days in summertime were left for fighting. These edicts were not very scrupulously obeyed. Sometimes the King lent the truce the weight of his authority and thus made it the peace of the land.

Q. Where did the word "trolley" originate? M. P.

A. Both French and German contain verbs resembling "trolley" and have the meaning of "rolling" or "rambling." The word "trolley" was coined in England and was first used in the sense of a land cart and then of a truck.

Q. Who was the first Greek modeler in clay? K. M. B.

A. Butades of Sicyon was the first Greek to model in clay. The story runs that his daughter drew upon the wall, the outline of her lover's shadow, upon which the father modeled the face of the young man. He then baked the model along with the clay tiles that it was his trade to make. This was about 600 B. C.

Q. Is twelve o'clock midnight considered twelve A. M. or twelve P. M.? B. H. P.

A. The Naval Observatory says the proper designation for midnight is twelve P. M.

How To Pack Pails

Women who must pack a dinner pail every morning soon acquire a little knack of their own. They will put the sweet and fruit in the bottom of the pail and the cold meats and sandwiches on top. And they never forget salt. When a man opens a pail packed in this fashion he can begin immediately to eat without lifting half of his food out onto the curbstone.

For fall and winter heartier food is necessary than during the spring and summer.

Lima beans, tomato and bacon sandwiches, peanut sandwiches, apple turn over coffee.

Welsh rarebit sandwiches, corned beef sandwiches, celery, prune jelly with nuts, coffee. An apple, pear or grapes could be added to each luncheon.

Lima Bean, Tomato and Bacon Sandwich

Cooked lima beans, sliced tomato, crisp fried bacon, mustard or salad dressing.

Chop the beans finely. Chop the bacon. There should be half as much bacon as there are beans. Put a slice of tomato on buttered whole wheat bread, add beans and bacon and season with mustard, salad dressing or salt and paprika and a tiny bit of onion salt.

Apple Turn Over

Apples, sugar, pie crust.

Pare quarter, core and slice apples. Allow about 1/4 cup sugar for each turn-over, depending on the tartness of the apples. If the fruit is juicy add 1 teaspoonful of flour to 1/4 cup sugar.

Cut pie crust in five-inch rounds with a big cutter. Wet the edges with cold water. On one side of the round put a big iron spoonful of sliced apples mixed with sugar. Fold over the other side of the pie crust, pinch the edges together. Cut two gashes on top and bake on a floured pan in a moderate oven.

Corned Beef Sandwiches

Boil corned beef until tender. Pick in shreds and mix with salad dressing. Some men prefer grated horseradish or mustard to salad dressings.

Prune jelly is a simple, wholesome dessert that is very good without a sauce. Put in a jelly glass with chopped nuts sprinkled over it, it packs perfectly.

MORALE AND MORALITY

I could not pack my bag until morning. A light in my room at 3 a. m. would attract attention. But with the day, I would put what I could carry into a handbag, then I would go down town in one of the Lorimer cars. I would go to the hair dressers and send the auto home.

From Mile Guette's I would go to the station, and take any train going anywhere.

Later, I would write Ann, my sister-in-law, to send by parcel post several packages of clothing. Ann would keep my secret for a while, just because she would delight in the adventure.

I longed for the day, but before it came, I nearly exhausted myself by struggling in a web of tangled thoughts.

Some had a good deal of sense, some very little.

I was continually trying to separate the Bob I had married from the man who had been running around after-noon with Katherine Miller for weeks.

In college I had read that two selves, perhaps more are eternally in conflict for the mastery of most individuals. Lately I had proved the theory in my own experience. Some times I myself desired action and adventure and excitement sometimes I only wanted to make salads and to sew val onto lingerie.

So it was easy for me to grant two souls to my husband. One of them I loved devotedly. That was his student soul, his quiet self the self that ruled himself. But when Bob took to the road of adventure I scorned him. When he let his transient emotions rule him, he was no more to me than a—Spanish muleter.

One does not arrive at self-mastery by making concessions to one's feelings. Inhibition is the beginning of character. I myself had liberal theories about freedom for husbands and wives but I couldn't include the easy surrender to fleeting emotions and blatant flattery as desirable liberty.

There's a morbid love in war I thought. Morale is the spirit with which humans face conditions—war, work, justice, honor, love.

Today women must face the changing conditions of love and matrimony with morale of a high order. I fancied that I was doing so. I would not live with Bob who so easily took all my love and so amply offered me a part of his devotion.

BIDDY BANTAM

"I think that things in the sky will take care of themselves for a spell," said Sprinkle Blow to Nancy and Nick, so we may as well be getting down to earth again. As I told you before, the only way in which I can find out just what people want is to stay around and see what they're planning to do. Let's be going."

So he said "One for the money and two for the show and all the rest of it and they all gave a big jump and came landing down right beside Farm-er Smith's chicken coop where Biddy Bantam was scratching for arubs and shiny black beetles. Biddy hadn't started to raise a family yet but she was going to soon the weather was so fine. She had found a lovely place in the hay stack nobody knew about and already had 10 eggs in it. When she had four more she was going to chuck. She swelled with pride when she thought of the 14 little fluffy peeps she would soon be mothering and scratched harder than ever. It was well to keep in practice with the prospect of such a large family to feed.

"Cluck cluck cluck," she clucked. "Won't Farmer Smith be surprised. But I'm worried for fear something may happen to my nest. Since it is so warm now I think I'll sleep up in the plum tree and keep one eye open."

"How can you sleep and keep one eye open?" asked Nancy.

"Oh so you heard what I said?" remarked Biddy, turning around. "I didn't know anybody was near. Yes, I have to watch, for Fleet Fox is as hungry as a bear after such a cold winter."

"Better roost high," suggested Sprinkle Blow. "Fleet might like chicken better than he does eggs."

SHIPPING BOARD IS BIGGEST SPENDER

Special to Post-Crescent

Washington, — The United States Shipping Board, admitting waste and extravagance to the amount of hundreds of millions in the past is trying to convince the public that it has reformed and is operating economically. But it has not.

The Shipping Board today is keeping on the payroll huge staffs of employees, in some cases 20 times the necessary number.

The board has 450 employees at London. Twenty men could efficiently handle the whole European operations of the board. Board officials admit that.

A force of 120 still is maintained at Boston. Only five Shipping Board vessels have sailed from that port in the whole history of the organization.

Several hundred employees are on the rolls at New York. Their duties could be handled by 20 men.

These figures come from a congressman who is in a position to know something about Shipping Board affairs. Inquires at the board headquarters apparently struck officials in a tender spot.

A high Shipping Board executive declared he had no idea how many were employed at London, Boston or New York. He referred the correspondent to another official in a building two blocks away.

WASHBURN COUNTY IS HIT BY CATTLE PLAGUE

Birchwood—Hemorrhagic septicæmia, the fatal cattle disease which has caused considerable damage to the cattle herds in Barron and Sawyer counties, has been discovered in Washburn county, and in some instances as high as 14 head out of 15 died from the disease. Veterinarians have been engaged in vaccinating cattle to prevent the spread of the malady. The disease appears to be the most serious in the vicinity of Shell Lake, and reports indicate that horses also are dying from the effects of the epidemic.

While reports are that the disease has been checked in Barron and Sawyer counties, in the country the situation remains serious. Veterinarians state that with the general vaccinating throughout this county the situation will not assume a condition so serious that it can not be checked.

The disease is a difficult one to fight because there is no known cure. The only protection being in the way of vaccination.

SEEK NEW TALENT FOR NEXT SEASON

Local Kaukauna Players Will Be Given Tryout in Remaining Games.

Kaukauna—Local baseball talent probably will be given a chance in the last two games of the season. The team goes to New London Sunday and to Oshkosh Monday. Another defeat or two will not help nor hinder the standing and the management has decided to begin preparing for next year. There is a possibility that several players will be found who can cover their positions as well as this year's players did.

Fans do not figure on another win but there is a chance that New London can be defeated. Kaukauna won the last game with the Edisons due mainly to the latter's lack of pitchers. It is almost certain that Oshkosh will take the cake in the last game since they are such ardent contenders for the valley title.

THE LOST NEEDLE

THERE'S an old English play known as "Gammer Garton's Needle". Its plot is woven around the loss of the family needle—no trifling misfortune in the days of old.

Today, in this era of ours, life is so rich in comforts that we seldom wonder how folks got along in the ancient world. And we sometimes forget what an important role advertising has played in making life pleasant and altogether livable.

Advertising has one of the leading parts in the eternal drama of dollars. To it is directly due much of the multiplication of products and services which has come about during the last half century.

It has smoothed the mechanics of existence—made life easier and more pleasant by bringing countless necessities—once considered luxuries—within our easy reach and into continuous use.

Think of this when you read these columns. You owe much to advertising.

And You Miss Much When You Fail To Read It!

MEXICAN COURT HELPS WIN SUPPORT OF U. S.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. Changes Name of Hotel After Forty-Seven Years

Northwestern House Hereafter Will Be Known as Northern Hotel.

The Northwestern hotel will hereafter be known as the Northern hotel. Announcement to this effect was made Thursday by John A. Brill, proprietor, who claimed the former name was too lengthy for advertising purposes and to a stranger suggested a railway boarding house.

Mr. Brill plans on an advertising campaign and makes the change at this time because of this. The former name was selected by Alois Hettinger, father of John L. Hettinger, who built the hotel 47 years ago.

Mr. Hettinger operated the hotel for several years and then leased it to John and Jacob Regenfuss, who ran it for three years. Successive proprietors were M. H. Brill, father of the present owner, and Fran. Lemmer and Son. John A. Brill purchased the hotel 24 years ago and has operated ever since.

In the early days the hotel catered to farm trade and a stable where farmers could put their teams was connected with it. Fifteen years ago Mr. Brill added a third story to the building and installed modern improvements.

Before interurban cars and auto mobiles the hotel was the headquarters of members of the county board, who, when that body was in session, were driven in by members of their families early Monday morning and remained at the hotel until Saturday night. Now they come in with their cars each morning and return home at night.

The hotel still is a prominent meeting place for politicians and live stock breeders. It was the headquarters of the Appleton Dairy Board of Trade for over 20 years during which time its owner acted as secretary. Cheese buyers from all over the state attended the weekly meetings and hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of cheese was sold each season.

CAMP STIMULATED SCOUT INTEREST

Onaway Camp Paid Its Own Way, Buck Says—Increases Interest in Work.

Appleton Bay Scouts who camped at Onaway Island, Chain o' Lakes, the last two weeks will be prepared for better scout work this winter and will stimulate interest among the boys who were not in camp, according to Scout Executive Howard Buck.

Classes in scout craft under competent instructors were a vital part of the camp program and were the means of combining education in practical things along with recreation. The number of merit badges awarded for scout work during the two weeks is good indication, said Mr. Buck, that the boys took real interest in the work. The boys who were in camp have been fitted to give real help and instruction to boys who were not there. This should result in more effective work during the school months, Mr. Buck believes.

The cost of maintaining the camp was approximately $900. It is believed that when all accounts have been audited it will be found that the camp paid its way. Each scout paid $5.50 per week camp fee and 70 scouts were at camp. This amounted to $11 each for the two weeks and camp expenses are estimated at $11.40 each. The extra 40 cents will be made up, it is believed, by profits from the camp canteen.

It would have cost each scout be-

MAKING THEM AMERICANS

How few of us realize the importance of making over the foreigner—of implanting American ideals, ideas and common sense in place of socialistic and maybe anarchistic theories. It means a lot to every American citizen. This work and many other interesting activities of the Department of Labor are discussed in the twelfth issue of the series of beautifully illustrated booklets on Our Government which we have been distributing to representative citizens of this community.

If by any chance you have failed to receive regularly your copies of this series that has been so favorably commented upon, visit us today and from the limited supply on hand we will gladly complete your set.

SENORITA A LA MEXICO

Aren't they nice? They're our neighbors—society beauties of Mexico City. However, that's beside the point. The craze for things Spanish in dress reached Mexico City long before it did New York, the Mexicans claim. Before long they add, we'll be getting a lot of our fashion ideas from Mexico herself.

DENIES VAMP PLOT CHARGED TO TUFTS

Former Mrs. Charles Stearns Aids Boston Official in Trial to Oust.

(Special to Post-Crescent) Boston — The Stearns divorce case is only one of many issues which have been revived in legal proceedings by Attorney General J. Weston Allen to remove District Attorney Nathan A. Tufts from office.

The supreme court soon will render its decision.

Allen charges Tufts with malfeasance in office in connection with the "Eden revels" at Mishawun Manor in 1917. On this occasion many movie men were guests at a dinner at the manor and girls were employed to entertain them.

It is charged that subsequent to the dinner efforts were made to obtain hush money from the movie men. It was as a result of his investigation of this affair that Allen started proceedings against Tufts.

In pressing his case Allen tried to show that Tufts laid a divorce trap for Captain Charles Ephraim Stearns, U. S. A., in which a pretty girl vamp was the bait. But the former Mrs. Stearns, now Mrs. Helen Weaver Swall, absolutely and completely exonerates Tufts.

Allen obtained testimony that Mrs. Stearns in 1918 asked Tufts to take her divorce case.

It was charged that Tufts told Mrs. Stearns she had no case, but that a case "could be made"—that he could send a pretty woman to trap Stearns. The girl vamp, according to the testimony, was "Miss Pennington," with whom Captain Stearns later was caught in a raid in Cambridge in June, 1918.

The former Mrs. Stearns denied all of this evidence. She declared Tufts refused to take the case because of his official position. She also denied Tufts sent her to another attorney.

Further, she said, "Miss Pennington" was an old acquaintance of Stearns, a stenographer and church member.

A deposition by Captain Stearns declared that he met a "Miss Pennington" in a hotel lobby while he was stationed at Fortress Monroe, Va., and that she invited him into her apartment, but he declined.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT Victor Black Beauty Tires

J. H. QUIGLEY COMPANY

Edgerton, Wisconsin
July 25, 1921

The Victor Rubber Company, Chicago, Illinois.

Gentlemen:—

On February 14th I ordered a set of 30x3 1/2 Victor Non-skid Fabric Tires, on February 18th I placed these tires on a Ford sedan that we use for livery purposes.

The car is going continuously, and since equipping with Victor Tires has run 8321 miles. The tread on these tires still show plenty of non-skid, and look good for a great many more miles.

We have five livery cars all running on Victor tires, and I wish to say we are getting more mileage per dollar out of Victor Tires than any tire we have ever used, and we have had practically all of the various makes of tires.

Yours truly,

J. H. QUIGLEY & COMPANY

ARRANGE SERIES OF POST-SEASON BASEBALL GAMES

FOUR VALLEY TEAMS PLAY THREE GAMES FOR $1,000 PURSE

First Game Will Be Played Sept. 11—Brewers Want to Play Brands Here.

Three post-season baseball games will be played by Appleton, Menasha, Fond du Lac and Oshkosh beginning Sunday, Sept. 11, it was decided at a meeting of owners and managers of the teams at Menasha this week. Appleton will play the last game at Fond du Lac and Oshkosh will invade Menasha. A purse of $1,000 is to be presented to the champion team at the end of the series.

Each team is to spend $250 in an advertising campaign which will be the largest amount ever spent in this section for baseball advertising.

Manager Brandt received a letter from the Milwaukee Brewers Wednesday stating the desire of the Milwaukee club to play a game with the Appleton team. The matter is under consideration and will be settled when Mr. Brandt returns from a business trip in Milwaukee. It is probable arrangements for a battle will be made with the Brewers. The game will be played after Oct. 2, since the Brewers' season does not close until then.

A one game championship battle is to be played between the winners of the Fox River Valley league pennant and the Lake Shore league champions after the close of the shore season on September 5.

Biggest Year In Tennis

Here is Champion Tilden, in action, as he looks today, and at the age of nine when he won his first cup.

Philadelphia—This has been the biggest year ever in tennis, and the climax of the season will be reached in the seven days of playing—Sept. 9-15—to decide the singles championship. All told, there will be 128 contestants for the tennis crown, representing not only the cream of America, but of the entire world.

In addition to Champ William T. Tilden, the American entries will include William M. Johnston of California, the former champion, Richard Norris Williams, II, another former national champion, Wallace F. Johnson, Watson Washburn, Charles S. Garland, S. Howard Vossell, Walter M. Hall, Dean Mather, Willis E. Davis, Robert Howard Kinsey, Bates and Levey, of the University of California, and Neer of Leland Stanford, and last—and many would not be surprised if he came out first—Vincent Richards, the 18-year-old marvel.

Many others are entered, but these are the ranking players.

All told, 19 countries will be represented in the tournament—the United States, England, France, Denmark, Canada, Japan, India, Australasia, Mexico and South Africa.

Great Britain will be represented by the veteran F. G. Lowe, Maxwell Woosnam, the Olympic star, O. G. N. Turnbull, a great doubles player, and J. B. Gilbert, who won the All-England plate at Wimbledon this year.

Zenzo Shimidzu and Ichiji Kumagane and Seichiro Kashio will represent Japan.

Australasia will be represented by one, possibly two, of the following players who came to this country for the Davis cup matches: Norman Peach, E. O. Anderson, J. B. Hawkes and Clarence V. Todd.

Gohert, the noted French player, will be on hand, as will be the three Danish stars—Tegner, Ingerslev and Henriksen.

Jacob Slem Deane and Fysee, who represented India in the Davis cup matches, are also expected to enter.

One of the big foreign stars will be E. L. C. Norton, the brilliant young South African, who forced Tilden to five sets in the challenge round of the world's championship at Wimbledon in June.

YANKS CONFIDENT OF NOSING INDIANS OUT OF FIRST PLACE

Only One Point Behind Cleveland—Giants Face Severe Test.

By Henry L. Farrell.

By United Press Leased Wire.
New York—New York's bunch of young American league hopefuls returned home Thursday. From Babe Ruth down to Benji Bennett, the bat boy, the Huggins clan is sure of a pennant.

Just one slim point behind the league leading Indians, the Yanks have a chance to take the lead this afternoon when they hook up with Washington in a double header while the Indians are having a single game with the Detroit Tigers.

The Yank pitching staff is still spot, but Host Shockey and Mays have been delivering. Even with ineffective work by Collins, Quinn and the reserve hurlers, the bats are being wielded strong enough to overcome the handicap.

The Giants swing into action today against Brooklyn across the river. So far this season, the Robins have been like so much poison to the Giants. Out of sixteen games with Uncle Robby's bunch, McGraw has been able to win only six. No brotherly love that might inspire the Robins to help the Giants along exists between the two clubs.

Pittsburg has a mouthful to chew in the series with the St. Louis Cards which are sweeping down the stretch on high speed. Gibson puts his Pirates against Rickey's clan today in a double header and will face them in another game tomorrow.

New York can reach first place in the league only by a victory over Brooklyn and some help from St. Louis by three wins over the Pirates.

The battle for third place between the Cards and the Braves is becoming almost as interesting as the pennant hunt in both leagues.

NEW LONDON ENDS 1921 SEASON HERE

Not much trouble is anticipated in the last battle of the season with New London on Labor day in spite of the fact that Kimberly, Appleton's jinx, will play the Brands at Kimberly Sunday afternoon.

Since "Fireball" Logan left the Edison's their pitching staff has not been of the best and they have been having difficulty in keeping their opponents from making slugfests out of every game.

The New London lineup for Monday's game is practically unchanged. Roman will backstop and Hoffman will occupy the rubber. Lespinka plays first base; Ruppenthal, second; Dobratz, third; Roman, rightfield; Luettke, leftfield; Smith, centerfield and Kuenn, short stop.

St. Louis—Waiting 'em out! John Tobin is filling that role for the St. Louis Browns.

And his five feet eight inches of stature and 160 pounds make him one of the hardest men to pitch to in the American league.

The midget, outfielder is batting around .375 in addition to his job of working pitchers for passes.

"I figure my job of waiting them out handicaps me just about 30 points in batting," says Tobin.

"Number one man on the batting order must sacrifice his batting average."

"Any way to get on is the idea. I always have in mind."

"I'm not kicking on my job. I score a lot of runs. That's what wins games."

Tobin at 27 is having his best year.

THREE TITLES AT STAKE LABOR DAY

New York—Three championship titles will be at stake in Tex Rickard's arena Labor Day, when Bryan Downey meets Johnny Wilson for the middleweight crown. Johnny Buff will defend his flyweight title against Indian Russell, and Joe Gans, negro middleweight champion, will exchange punches with Mike McTigue, champion of Ireland and Canada.

It is the first time since Corbett took the heavyweight crown from Sullivan that so many titles will be battled for and there's an even chance that two of them may change hands.

SEEK COURT AID TO GET RACINE MEMORIAL SITE

Racine—Inability to purchase property as a site for the proposed soldiers' memorial building to cost $400,000, at prices considered fair, has resulted in commissioners in charge of funds to institute condemnation proceedings in an effort to obtain land at a reasonable price.

The site selected is on the lake shore square and has a frontage of 200 feet, of which 180 feet will be used for the proposed building.

Two parcels of property, each 40 feet wide, are included in this site. The owners of one piece demand $20,000, while the owner of the other demands $15,000.

IF TALK DOES IT, THIS MOVIE WINS

Lou and Geraldine Are Staging a Real Love Tragedy Called "The Locked Door."

Special to Post-Crescent.
New York—"The Locked Door" suggests a scenario with which Geraldine Farrar and Lou Tellegen could pack the movies.

The title is from real life; the reel could be.

The movie that gets over biggest is the one that's most talked about—and they're talking everywhere about the separation of the grand opera singer and the actor who co-starred, loved and were married in the movies.

Talking—like this: "Geraldine locked him out! Think of it!"

"Yes, and why shouldn't she. The only surprise is that she let him see first."

"Humph! The only surprise is that she ever married him!"

"I think he was perfectly lovely—so handsome! And such a soulful eyes!"

"Handsome is as handsome does!"

"They say she didn't even want him to make love to another woman on the stage or before the camera."

"Really! Why she did everything possible to further his career."

"He wanted perfect domestic life."

"Not more than she. Even though she has won worldwide fame as a singer and actress, she longed for the delights of an ideal home."

"Then why did she lock the door?"

"Well, why shouldn't she lock the door?"

"Poor Geraldine. 'Twould have been better if she had kept her vows never to marry any man."

"Poor Lou. His love might have been better bestowed—on some woman who could have understood."

"But what can you expect when artists wed?"

"What can you? Why do they?"

Wait for Next Reel

So Geraldine Farrar, the daughter of a baseball player, who won worldwide celebrity through her divine voice and beauty, at 39 finds herself the central figure on the stage in a real tragedy.

And Lou Tellegen, half Greek, half Dutch, whose exotic form the divine Sarah Bernhardt first revealed to the American public, stands outside—"The Locked Door."

Will Geraldine ever unbolt the door to him—the door she locked—and barred after their final parting at his Long Beach fishing shack, following a tempestuous scene?

The next reel will tell.

John Paltzer left Wednesday for Milwaukee where he will spend a few days visiting relatives and attending the state fair.

Eugene Walsh has returned from a visit with Milwaukee friends.

GIRLS PLAY TONIGHT FOR CITY NET TITLE

Who will add the sterling silver spoon to her hope chest is the question to be settled at the final game of the Woman's Tennis tournament of the Appleton Womens club. The games are scheduled for 6 o'clock Thursday on the "Y" courts. The winner will be awarded the spoon as a trophy on which will be engraved the word "Tennis" and 1921.

Winners in the first games which were played Tuesday night are Sybil Schommer from Alma Bartman, Josephine Johnson from Gertrude Kessler, Elsie Storm from Ethel Krueger, Cecil Mills from Alma Krueger. The girls will draw lots for playing Thursday night, and then winners will play winners and losers, losers.

The tournament is the first which the womens club has undertaken. The warm weather has caused many of those who signed up for tennis early in the summer to drop out leaving just a few faithfuls, most of whom took part in the games.

Carroll Atkinson has arrived at Fairbury, Neb., where he will spend the winter.

NEW H. S. LIBRARY SOON TO BE READY

Conveniently Located Room
Will Have Larger Reading Collection.

Efficiency of Appleton high school is to be greatly enhanced this year by the addition of a modern, up-to-date library. The room chosen is one of the most central in the building, easily accessible and convenient. The entrance is opposite to the assembly room and across the corridor from the office. It is well lighted and ventilated, presenting a sharp contrast to the small, dark alcove which has served as a distribution point for books in previous years.

The collection comprises 5,500 volumes of philosophy, religion, sociology, language, science, useful arts, fine arts, literature, travel, biography, history and fiction. It includes a splendid collection of reference books which will be an asset to every department in the school. Two hundred new books have been added for collateral reading in American history and citizenship.

A beautifully bound set of "Messages and Papers of the Presidents" in 11 volumes, has been added to the shelves.

The shelves and furnishings of the room have been made by the manual training department. Magazine and newspaper files will be provided in a few days. Reading tables will be placed in the room to accommodate about 40 students. Drop lights are to be installed. New equipment has been ordered from the library supply houses such as book supports, shelf label holders and cards.

The fire that destroyed some of the library books early in the summer, also destroyed the card catalogue. It will take several months of patient effort before the work of recataloging the books will be completed.

Miss Ruth Mielke, librarian, has been working since Aug. 15 at classifying and shelving the 5,500 volumes. She is enthusiastic and says it is intensely interesting to build up a new library. Beside her work as librarian, Miss Mielke is to teach two sophomore English classes.

Miss Annette Konpln, office clerk, who is assisting her, will have charge of the library during the periods when Miss Mielke is teaching.

A supply of 50 magazines have been subscribed for, some of which are weekly, monthly and bi-monthly. Among the newspapers which will be taken are the Appleton Post-Crescent, Chicago Tribune, New York Times, Des Moines Register Leader and the New Orleans Times Picayune. The New York Times is for reference for American history classes.

The fiction section of the library is confined to books for outside reading for English.

The school library is in no sense in competition with the public library, Miss Mielke said. It is primarily a reference library for classroom use. Miss Mielke said that what the room lacked most now was pretty drapes for the windows and flower boxes to add the right homelike touch.

Students are viewing with interest the change in the library system and are already beginning to peek in as they go by. It is certain they will appreciate an attractive reading room with books properly arranged and easily accessible.

SCHAFFELKE BODY REACHES HOBOKEN

The body of William Schaffelke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustave Schaffelke, Freedom, Ind., has arrived at Hoboken, N. J., from France according to a telegram received by his mother. Private Schaffelke was one of the first Appleton young men to be killed in the war, having lost his life at Chateau Thierry July 15, 1915. He was a member of Company G, serving with that unit in Texas and left for France with the Rainbow division.

No arrangements can be made for funeral services until more detailed information about the time of arrival of the body can be obtained. Mrs. Schaffelke's telegram contained only the information that the body had arrived.

OPPONENT OF BIG FIGHT TO SPEAK

The Rev. Wilbur P. Craft, D. D. of Washington, D. C., who is with the International Bureau of Reform, will speak at 7:30 Thursday evening at a union mass meeting in the First Methodist church. Dr. Craft is famous as an orator, author and reformer. He tried to stop the Cullen-Dempsey fight.

Dr. Craft is to speak at the Wisconsin conference of the Methodist church next week in Green Bay. He is also in Green Bay and other Wisconsin cities this week. He comes under suspicion of Appleton ministers.

Indian Fair Coming
A number of Appleton people are making plans to attend the Indian fair at Koshena reservation from Sept. 20 to 23. The Koshena fair always draws a large crowd, visitors coming for long distances because of the novelty of the event. The Indians are said to be preparing a good program for this year's fair.

Directors To Meet
To make plans for fall meetings and to transact routine business, the board of directors of Appleton Chamber of Commerce will meet at the Sherman House at 6:15 Thursday evening. Chairman for minor committees will be named at the meeting.

Phone Operator Expected To Know About Everything

Do you always ask central where the fire is every time the department makes a run? So does everyone else in town.

"If people understood how busy an operator may be during a rush period," said Miss Gertrude Besch, chief operator at the Wisconsin Telephone office, "they would be more patient. When there is a fire run, the operators hands fly and they are continually answering the same question. 'Where is the fire?'" In busy periods in the morning, an operator has to be pretty level headed to remain courteous to all those on the phone. The average operator completes a call in five seconds, a more experienced one in about two and a half seconds.

According to the operators, they can tell almost instantly from the manner of the person at the other end of the line whether he is a business person. Some persons whom the operator gets to know through their constant use of the phone receive almost perfect service because they learn how to place their calls. Business service is the heaviest in the morning, while the evening until about 9 o'clock is busiest in residence districts. Such places as the college dormitories and the fraternal houses are called constantly during the meal hours. The busiest months for the telephone are June, July and August.

Do you have a mental picture of the girl who answers your phone when you pick up the receiver? In spite of her professional manner, she may be very young and girlish and even wear her hair down her back in a pigtail. Many of the operators are not more than seventeen and some are still attending school.

So called "fool questions," which people ask the operators are growing less frequent as the telephone is becoming more common to the majority of people. Many people use the telephone operators as an information bureau. Scores of games, location of fires, the time of a parade, and many more points of information are asked each operator many times a day. To many patrons of the telephone, the rural operator is still the "farmer girl."

The Appleton office is considered one of the busiest for a city of this size in the state. More than 30,000 local calls are handled by the operators every day. It is also known as one of the most important switching stations since three girls are kept busy all of the time connecting one city with another when their own direct lines are busy. The average number of toll calls a day is 900.

H. S. TO ENROL 800 TUESDAY MORNING

Building Has Been Renovated and Redecorated in Preparation for Opening.

Everything is in readiness at Appleton high school for registration of 800 students on Tuesday Sept. 6. Principal L. C. Rasey stated Wednesday afternoon that the increase in enrollment will be much greater than expected because of the new educational law which requires all students to attend school at least one-half the time until they are 16 years old. All students above freshmen will register at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, while freshmen will enter at 1:30 in the afternoon.

A few changes have been made in the classrooms during the summer which will make it possible to take care of the large enrollment without difficulty. The entire building has been renovated, redecorated and refurnished.

A teacher's meeting is to be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning in the high school.

APPLETON DAY IS BIG FAIR EVENT

About 250 Appleton people autored to Hortonville Thursday to attend Appleton day at Outagamie-co. fair. It was originally planned to have an automobile procession such as attended the Seymour fair but as people desired to go at different times this plan was abandoned.

A large number left early in the morning and spent all day. They carried lunches and had a picnic in the Hortonville park at noon. Others left early in the afternoon and quite a number went later in the day to be in attendance at the evening's events. Hat bands and auto banners bearing the words, "You'll like Appleton" were given the motorists by the chamber of commerce.

FARM PRESS SEEKS DATA ON BUSINESS SITUATION

A questionnaire asking information in regard to business conditions in this section has been received from the Capper Farm Press bureau of Kansas by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

The bureau operates in connection with the farm publications owned by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. By getting reliable data in regard to actual conditions all over the country, the bureau plans to be of help to individual localities as it will be in a position to furnish information to chambers of commerce and other civic organizations after the survey has been completed.

The questionnaire asks for data on demand and supply of hardware, automobiles, farm machinery and other products of essential industries. It asks for an explicit statement on the attitude of the "buying public" and especially the attitude of the farmer.
